REASONS WHY HENDERSONVILLE NEEDS CO-OPERATIVE CREAMERY

Prospective Stockholders in Proposed Creamery Organization Urged to Meet Here on December 11.

(By Chas. F. Baldwin.)

We wish to urge all the farmers and their wives in Henderson and Transylvania counties to come to the meeting on Saturday, Dec. 11th, at the town hall in Hendersonville to hear the question of a farmers co-operative creamery discussed. If this project can be carried through it will mean great things to the whole section. It is every man's gain, not the gain of the dairy farmer alone. Of course how great a success it will be depends on the people of this section.
But what has been done in other sections can surely be done here. For here all conditions are prime for dairying, and surely we will not grant that we as a people can not do what others have done. It would not be wise nor honest to say that we want every farmer to be a dairy man, some people are not fitted to handle the milk cow but can make a success at some other branch of farming and what a man is fitted for that he should take hold of. But we want the interest and encouragement of every farmer and every resident of the towns to push along this co-operative creamery because it will mean the development of a great industry and that means money in town and country; and second, it means the beginning of a great movement that in the end must work for the mental, moral and financial benefit of our section—co-operation.

In every section where co-operation has succeeded life on the farms has been taken from the rut and home life has broadened. Pleasure has been added to the work life; granting success follows.

To every man or woman who likes cows and understands their care we would say that you are needed in this work. But some say "we believe in it" but will wait and see how it comes out. No movement can succeed if that point of view holds. If you believe in it then have the courage of your beliefs and put your self or record with those few who are willing to risk their judgment and take the chances necessary to start what can not start itself. When success comes you will be glad to say "I did my share."

Some say "I can not afford it." Now that question each one must decide for himself, but do not let fear or risking a few dollars keep your name off the list of founders. There may be a few who can not afford to take hold but very few if any. Any man who has health and willingness to work can get two or three cows, and if he likes them they will do the rest. A cow that will not return $5.00 a month in cream is not fit for any thing but to beef. With the best cows you can afford and an ambition to own better make the start. The skimmed milk is there for pigs or chickens, a good profit in either, then the calf and the manure remain to help on the keep of the cow. With cows returning as little as $5.00 each a month they would pay for a share of stock in five months. Starting in the spring with the first pastures those two cows would pay for the stock in not over five months from the cream, and the warm milk fed to a litter of pigs pays during those same months would produce some nice pigs for the late summer market. In the fall build a silo and put three or four acres of corn in it, then increase the cows and find your income coming to you each month and cash too. No more trading a little butter for what you can get, your cream, milk, pigs and chickens are a year around business and soon the credit method is given up for a bank account and cash dealings.
Your dealer will be glad of smaller real profits to large profits and many bad or slow debts.

An end to hesitation! Do not fear the risk of a few dollars. If the plan is good then take hold and put your little share of time and thought to it.
All push together, all consider it an individual work and it must succeed.
Enthusiasm, then more enthusiasm, and continued earnest work and the job is done. It is no time to put off a good work. More co-operative creameries seem to start with the new year than any other time. It gives a chance to build plans in the slack season.

Come in and encourage the work, and then you will decide to join in it.
Remember, Dec. 11th, at 11 a. m. town hall, Hendersonville.

THREE MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS IN HENDERSON COUNTY.

Henderson county has at least three moonlight schools.

County Supt. W. S. Shittle states that no formal reports have been made to him concerning any of the schools.
Others may be in progress but he has not heard of but three. Two of these are at Tuxedo and East Flat Rock.
Since he had no reports he could not recall the location of the third school.
So far as can be learned, the night school at Tuxedo was the first to open.
In commenting on the school work, J. O. Bell of Tuxedo said that Mrs.
Bell, Miss Margaret Warlick and Miss Kate Shipman alternated as teachers.
Mr. Bell said that several of the older people who couldn't read nor write had enrolled but some failed to keep up their work. Some of the night pupils had pursued their studies to great advantage, he said.

The moonlight schools for teaching aged illiterates throughout the state has accomplished great things in North Carolina during the past few weeks.

RED CROSS SEALS ON SALE IN HENDERSONVILLE STORES.

Interesting History of the Movement That Has Done Much for Charity in This Country.

The Red Cross Seal campaign is on over all the United States. The stickers may be found at several Hendersonville stores.

Mrs. C. R. Whitaker is chairman of the local board and a member of the state board of directors. A thorough campaign is being prepared for in this city and the personnel of the organization will be announced later.

About $100 worth of seals were sold in Hendersonville last year as a result of which considerable work of a charitable nature was done here.
Seventy-five per cent of the proceeds from the sales may be applied to local use.

An educational show on the subject of Red Cross Seal work will be given at the Vista theatre soon, date to be announced later.

The following history of the seals is interesting:

Nearly $2,500,000 has been raised by Red Cross Christmas Seals in the last seven years, and yet many people who will buy these holiday stickers at their eighth annual sale do not know how the charity stamp idea originated.

It was that brought forth the charity stamp—our Civil War of '61 to '65. Some of our grandmothers first played "post office" with the stickers similar to Red Cross Seals 'way back in 1862, when they conceived the idea of selling stamps at fairs for the benefit of the relief funds for the soldiers' hospitals in Brooklyn, Boston and elsewhere. Nearly $1,000,000 was raised in this way before 1865. After the war this method of raising money was discontinued in this country for a generation, although it found vogue in Portugal, Switzerland, Austria, France, Spain, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other European countries. There are now several thousands of different types of charity stamps used in all parts of the world, as many as forty being used in Austria for children's hospitals alone.

Stamps or seals were first used to get money for the anti-tuberculosis crusade in Norway and Sweden in 1904. To Jacob Riis, the well known social worker of New York, and to Miss Emily P. Bissell, the energetic secretary of the Delaware Red Cross, jointly belong the honor of originating our American Red Cross Christmas seal. In 1907 Mr. Riis's interest was aroused by the receipt of a Christmas tuberculosis stamp on a letter from Norway. He published an article about this queer looking stamp in the Outlook and suggested some possible uses for it in this country. Miss Bissell at once saw an opportunity here and prepared a stamp, from the sale of which her society realized $3,000 for tuberculosis work. So impressed was she with this success that she induced the American Red Cross to take up the sale in 1908 on a national basis.
With very little organization and with hardly any attempt at careful advertising the sale that year brought in over $135,000 for anti-tuberculosis work in various parts of the United States. In 1909, with more thorough organization, the sale was increased to $230,000, in 1910 to nearly $310,000, in 1911 to over $330,000 and in 1912 to over $400,000. In 1913 the sale was increased to nearly $450,000, and last year, in spite of war and hard times, 22 per cent more, or 55,000,000 seals were sold, totaling $550,000 for the anti-tuberculosis war.

It is fitting to note that war, inhuman and cruel, was the mother of the Red Cross seal, and that now war for humanity against disease brings it back to its fullest usefulness.

CITY COMMISSIONERS MEET.

Building Permit Ordinance Passed; Cow-Stable Complaint Heard, Etc.
The city commissioners in monthly session Thursday night had only a few matters for consideration, hence the session was comparatively short and uninteresting one.

A. L. Gurley was before the board with reference to a street space that had been donated to the city between his property and that of Commissioner J. W. Bailey, leading from Buncombe street. He stated that the street was donated to the city; that it did not extend through to Church street, was serving no purpose and he and Mr.
Bailey would like to have it divided between them. The matter was referred to the city attorney for him to pass upon its legal phases.

Architect Erle G. Stillwell notified the board that tentative plans calling for the remodeling of the city hall, had been finished. The board decided to inspect the plans on Thursday night of this week.

A petition signed by Mrs. Scrivens and others protested against a cow lot owned by Mrs. Allen, declaring that it was objectionable to the residents of that section. Action was deferred.
Chief of Police Powers was instructed to have removed an abandoned privy formerly used in connection with a house on Second avenue, and undesirably situated to the rear of Mayor C. E. Brooks' home.

Vernon Few desired authority to place a new roof on his building near the postoffice. The board decided that such authority was without its jurisdiction since the repairs would not conform to the State laws.

Sheriff J. C. Drake was given permission to build a cow shed on the court house property, east of the jail.
On motion of Commissioner R. C.
Clarke the board adopted an ordinance making it necessary for prospective builders to pay a fee of $1 before receiving a written permit to erect a structure within the city.

Attention was called to the fact that people are erecting buildings without securing permits.

The bills were passed upon by the board.

LET THEM SPEND IT.

There seems yet to be some property in the country. We note that a millionaire recently gave a dinner costing $357.15 a plate. This does not seem probable—does not seem possible, for instance, to the wage-earner who toils ten hours and receives the miserable stipend of say one dollar and a half. To the wage-earner who receives five shillings needs toll sixty seven days to pay for a little dinner—well, it strikes us that he paid about seven dollars and fifteen cents more than it was worth.

The man who reaches down into the depths of his breeches pockets and fishes up a beer check, a nickel and a dried potato, which, he wears to charm the rheumatism, must of necessity cry out against this wanton waste—this reckless extravagance, the preposterous idea of paying three hundred and fifty-seven dollars and fifteen cents for one dinner—well, breakfast to be on within ten hours.

The spell-binding politician who gets out in the court house square somewhere or other and warm up to a pitch that his celluloid collar threatens to explode because of spontaneous combustion, will point out to you the dangers that threaten the nation when men riot in such luxury and pay out a single meal more than he has earned in his natural life time.

But when you go look upon the man who juggles with his millions with as much recklessness as children blow soap bubbles and he wants to know: What shall do with my wealth?
If I hoard it I am counted a miser.
If I give it to charity I am criticized and abused. If I enter the commercial field and do big things I am indicted for being a conspirator—why can't I buy a few plates of soup and ask in my friends to eat a meal with me?
What did it cost—only a few hundred dollars, and they to old lady receives in change for her eggs which she has taken to market.

All in this world of woe is by comparison—it must be so—and when a man with a million gives a feast it cost well up in the hundreds or it is commonplace.

We are not inclined to criticize the millionaire, except we think his advertising agent in giving out the news, should have called it $250 in round numbers. To have figured it down to $547.15 looks like there was no tip coming to the waiters—and that is cinchy.—Everything.
